Conference Overview

The Faculty of Arts and Human Sciences at Mohammed V University in Rabat is organizing the second edition of its International Conference in the fields of language studies, literature, and social sciences. This year's theme will focus on the importance of promoting research ethics in academic research, particularly in the areas of language studies, literature, and social sciences.

As outlined by the 2017 report from the Higher Council for Education, Training, and Scientific Research, and the pedagogical guidelines for doctoral studies, research ethics serve as a cornerstone for ensuring the integrity and credibility of academic research. Upholding ethical standards is crucial to fostering trust between researchers, academic institutions, and society at large. In light of the growing academic and technological challenges, it is essential to cultivate a strong culture of research ethics among doctoral students to produce quality research that adheres to high standards of academic integrity.

This conference, organized in collaboration with the Doctoral Studies Center “Humans and Space in the Mediterranean World”, aims to provide doctoral students with a platform to present their research, while upholding the highest academic ethical standards.

Conference Objectives

This conference aims to:

- Raise awareness among doctoral students about the importance of research ethics and its impact on the quality of academic research.
 - Encourage researchers to incorporate ethical values throughout all stages of research, from hypothesis formulation to publication of results.
 - Provide a platform for academic discussions on how to implement ethical practices in various fields of study, with a focus on language studies, literature, and social sciences.
 - Highlight the role of research ethics in fostering academic innovation and excellence.
 - Prepare a new generation of researchers capable of addressing research challenges with high ethical standards.

Expected Outcomes

- Increased awareness among doctoral students about the importance of ethics in conducting rigorous academic research.
- Issuance of recommendations to support a research culture committed to the highest standards of integrity.
- Establishment of communication networks among researchers regarding best ethical practices in scientific research.

Submission Guidelines

- Eligibility: Participation is open to all doctoral students who have completed at least two years of doctoral study in the fields of languages, literature, arts, humanities, or social sciences.
- Paper/Poster Relevance: Submissions must be relevant to the topic of your doctoral thesis and to the conference theme. Submissions must not have been presented at other conferences or published elsewhere.
- Supervisor Approval: All submissions must be endorsed by the thesis supervisor.

Poster Submission Guidelines

- Posters should clearly present the research topic and provide a concise overview of the project.
- Posters should be submitted as PDF files, not exceeding 5 MB in size.
- Posters must include the researcher's and supervisor's name, in addition to the title of the research project.

Research Paper Submission Guidelines

- Papers should be between 3000 and 6000 words, including references and appendices.
- Papers may be written in Arabic, French, or English.
- APA citation style must be used for referencing.
- Papers should be submitted as Word documents, with a PDF version attached.
